

Workshop on tools

Relief Maps as tools for intersectional diagnoses: places, emotions and experience

The Relief Map is an innovative methodology that allows analyzing data on the perception of inequality from an intersectional, emotional and geographical perspective. The workshop will explore how personal experience is traversed by different axes of inequality and privilege, placing special emphasis on the psychological dimension and showing how this experience can vary depending on the places.

Speaker: Maria Rodó de Zárata