

Looking for synergies: experiences and challenges in crossing axes of inequality

The case of Berlin, Germany

The Senate of Berlin has promoted several projects that take into account the heterogeneity of LGBTI people with regard to aspects such as age, origin, social class, etc. With the aim of extending this look to social movements, it has developed a tool based on the intersectional approach that wants to encourage organizations that receive public funding to incorporate actions for equality and non-discrimination.

Speaker: Florencio Chicote