

Training, evaluation and intervention from an intersectional point of view: the case of the health field

The case of the Public Health Agency of Barcelona

The Public Health Agency of Barcelona has developed a guide to evaluate health policies from an intersectional point of view. Its application shows how aspects such as gender, class or origin can lead to inequalities in health, and give examples of how a one-dimensional analysis can overlook these inequalities.

Speaker: Carme Borrell